“ I am beyond heartbroken. I don't know why you are gone. I only know because you never answered me once you left for NOLA. I knew something was wrong and I started searching your name online. I couldn't believe it, I still can't believe it when I found this. I checked your birthday a hundred times, i just talked to you. (I apologize for all the mean text messages when I didn't hear back from you.) I am sorry I didn't make time for you right before you left. It is killing me, I know you only reach out to me when you truly need to talk. Could I have changed your fate? I will forever wonder... While we started out dating and tried more than once, which never worked out, we truly became the closest of friends. (I promise I know more about you then a single one of your so called friends.). I will forever miss you and carry you in my heart ❤️. Give my parents a huge hug from me, especially my mom, give her two. Please tell them how very much I miss them. While I gained another angel 😇 looking out for me, I lost an amazing friend and person. All my love, May you forever Rest In Peace.
