“ Our beautiful baby blued eyed blond haired brother grew up to be a Justin Timberlake lookalike with the personality of Will Smith in Fresh Prince of Bel-Air

“ One of my favorite memories of Michael was watching him dance. He could do all the hip hop dance moves. I spent many nights watching him dance along with him trying to teach me those moves. A few I could do singularly but could never string them together like he could. He was a great dancer who would perform for anyone at anytime. We spent lots of time together dancing and laughing, mostly him laughing at me. He was a very patient teacher and took great pride in teaching me the moves and thoroughly enjoyed when I would accomplish what he was teaching that day. His sense of humor was on full display during those sessions.
