“ I wish that life had been kinder to you,... I wish that I could change the moments that I wanted too, I wish that I could have taken away all the pain you carried... I will remember you as a light when I was dark, and a kind loving heart when I was so very cold and hard. We will always love you and remember you as our fun, loving and kind, attitude having partner, mother, and friend. Rest easy with the Angels Whit-Bee, you will not be forgotten... We will always love you...

“ I love you, and I miss you... I hope people remember you as someone resilient and kind. No matter what you went through you always had this glow of kindness and love. You were genuine and real.your laugh, your smile, your tears, the words you'd use when you spoke as if they were carefully picked so you could uplift whoever you were speaking too. I remember the karaoke nights and the family rap battles playing games and you teaching me how to cook Cajun food. The way you loved my children as if they were your own grandchildren. You were always there for me, sitting and talking to me for hours at a time the long car rides that got me through the worst of my days and vice versa. And you always treated me like I was one of your own children. You were always rooting for me. And you were always trying your best there's not a day that went by that you wouldn't speak about your amazing children and how much you loved them and I know with each one of them a piece of you is still here. I hope you are at peace and all pain is gone I know God called you home because you were truly an angel walking on earth. You touched the lives of many even if you weren't aware of it. Your impact on our lives will never be forgotten. We love you whit-bee forever ❤️
