“ I am so grateful that I got to know my cousin Yvette. It wasn't until adulthood, after moving to New Orleans, that our paths finally crossed — and I will always be thankful that they did.

She was kind, patient, loving, and funny. She led by example when it came to selflessness and showing up for the people she loved. She loved fiercely and without condition.

The news of her passing hit me and our family incredibly hard. I wish we'd had more time together.

*To Yvette — thank you for everything you gave to my younger cousins. For taking care of them, making sure they were clothed and fed, and above all, for truly *knowing* them — their interests, their dreams, their desires. That kind of love leaves a lasting mark.*

You will be forever missed. I love you.

“ Yvette and I grew close working together for Dr McLendon she was always there that was a tough time in my life and she was my advisor took me on my first vacation ever to Las Vegas and now I live here. She would talk about her kids she was raising the three of them were her joy even though they were her great neice and nephews she loved them with everything. I will miss her and always treasure our memories together. Get your rest but you will be missed.

“ I may never find the right word to say thank you or goodbye, Aunite Yvette was the highlight of every year I spent with her. Yes I sometimes was rude or locked myself away but hearing her say “is everything ok” made me want to tell her everything. From the late night var rides trying to find a place to sleep. To us being city girls because we had no other place to go. To the fight, jokes, and even when we could not stand each other she was always there. She kept me clean and it was a lot of cleaning but now looking back I wish I had listened but as the saying goes you never know what you missed till its gone

“ I met Yvette during a very difficult time in her life. I was impressed with her strength and resilience, her commitment and dedication to the children she had taken into her care. She was an exceptional woman.
